Dear Friends,

Over the last 126 years, Volunteers of America-Greater New York (VOA-GNY) has built a proud legacy of leadership and innovation.

One of the earliest adopters of the supportive housing model in New York City, we have been pioneering new models of service since our inception—becoming a leading provider of human services and a founding member of the coalition that ended chronic veteran homelessness in the city.

Today we continue this legacy by boldly paving the way toward systemic change as we work to end homelessness for all in the Greater New York area by 2050.

In addition to providing vital support, including mental health and substance use services to some of our most vulnerable neighbors, we are leveraging our experience to tackle the deep-rooted inequities that have caused barriers to housing, health services, and a stable financial future for so many.

The following pages highlight some of the ways you helped us respond to the needs of thousands of men, women, and children this year, including Cathy in Northern New Jersey. You can also read about two groundbreaking pilots that we launched: our Street to Housing program and brain injury screening initiative for survivors of domestic violence. Both are first-of-their-kind examples of creativity and collaboration in action with the potential to make a broader impact nationwide.

In 2022, homelessness reached a record high in New York City due to the lack of affordable housing, expiration of the COVID-era eviction moratorium, and arrival of 30,000 asylum seekers. Our work to develop innovative models of support for people experiencing, or at risk of, homelessness has never been more important.

Looking ahead, we will continue to nurture our relationships with the private and public sectors, and advocate for the needs of our clients and colleagues. This includes honoring the talent and dedication of our staff by calling for #JustPay and lifting their voices as thought leaders in the field.

VOA-GNY has been blessed with an extraordinary community whose generosity is instrumental to our work. We are profoundly grateful to our donors, corporate and nonprofit partners, policymakers, and staff, without whom this work would be impossible.

On behalf of the VOA-GNY Board of Directors, including our newest members Robert Golden, Deepa Mardolkar, Paul Quinlan, and Lauren D. Williams, we thank you for your sustained support and hope to see you at our gala on April 17, 2023.

Together we will continue to create lasting change for our neighbors in need.

Ending Homelessness in Greater New York

Every day our dedicated staff are working diligently to support individuals and families experiencing, or at risk of, homelessness. But our work does not stop there. VOA-GNY is striving to create systemic change through cutting-edge programs that break down long-standing barriers to affordable housing, quality health services, and pathways to build wealth.

Cathy's Story

Three years ago, Cathy was in a dark place. She had been thrown out by her partner and the father of her children. With no job or place to live, she was unable to get custody of her kids. Although she eventually found work and a shared apartment, that stability was short-lived when her roommate moved out, leaving Cathy unable to pay the rent. She became homeless before being hospitalized and diagnosed with clinical depression.

That is when everything changed.

While at the hospital, Cathy was connected with VOA-GNY's Community Support Services program in Northern New Jersey that provides housing, mental health services and other support.

VOA-GNY was “like an angel sent by God,” Cathy says. Staff helped her apply for benefits, find an apartment, provided her with furniture and clothes, and connected her with legal help so she could seek custody of her children. When she won, the team helped her find a bigger apartment for her newly reunited family.

Today, Cathy and her kids are thriving. She aspires to start her own business and, thanks to the support she received from VOA-GNY, feels confident that she can achieve her goals.

“It was hard, but it takes people to believe in you... and VOA-GNY never gave up on me.”

Prioritizing Dignity: Street to Housing Pilot

Each night, thousands of unsheltered individuals sleep on New York City's streets and subways, their experiences as diverse and complex as their needs. Many have untreated mental health disorders. Others are dealing with layers of trauma. Both are significant contributors to chronic street homelessness.

Some of these individuals prefer to live "under the radar" and avoid the shelter system due to feelings of exclusion, not only from society, but from trying and failing to navigate the bureaucratic systems that are designed to help, but still seem to keep them down.

To address this, VOA-GNY launched the Street to Housing pilot program designed to bring 80 individuals experiencing homelessness directly into supportive housing in the spirit of the "housing first" model. This first-of-its-kind program in New York City gives clients autonomy to choose where they live while providing access to services such as mental health care. Once proven successful, it will serve as a model that can be scaled and replicated across the city.

The pilot is run in partnership with the NYC Department of Social Services (DSS), Human Resources Administration (HRA), Department of Homeless Services (DHS) and Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DOHMH).

Richard's Story

Since the launch of the Street to Housing pilot in September, VOA-GNY has helped individuals like Richard, 60, who was living in the subway system. He had fallen on hard times and, in addition to dealing with his own health complications, was caring for his elderly mother. Today, Richard is living stably at one of our supportive housing programs where he can access the services he needs to begin thriving again.

Theresa's Story

Staff helped Theresa learn to identify abusive behavior so she could avoid repeating unhealthy relationship patterns in future. They also assisted her with finding a safe apartment for her and her children.

Last year, VOA-GNY provided shelter and support services, including counseling, to 393 families recovering from domestic violence. Theresa* was one of them.

She suffered years of physical and emotional abuse by multiple boyfriends, including strict control over her wardrobe and cellphone, before arriving at VOA-GNY with her three children. Trained in trauma-informed care, staff knew not to push Theresa to share her feelings before she was ready. Instead, they gently let her know that they were ready to talk when she was. After months of silence, Theresa finally reached out, upset because her boyfriend, who she revealed she was still in contact with, was harassing her. From then on, a trusting relationship was born.

Trailblazing in Domestic Violence Care

According to the National Coalition Against Domestic Violence (NCADV), one in four women experience intimate partner violence at some point in their lives, with an estimated 74% sustaining injuries to the head or neck. Yet victims of domestic violence are rarely screened for brain injury—unlike professional male athletes, for whom these injuries are actively discussed, treated, and prevented.

In 2022, VOA-GNY set out to change this.

In partnership with Safe Living Space, we began screening women who enter our domestic violence programs for traumatic brain injury, referring those with possible signs to Northwell Health's Concussion Program.

By recognizing and addressing the impact of brain injuries, domestic violence survivors will become better equipped to navigate systems such as court and child welfare—potentially changing the course of their lives. At the same time, VOA-GNY will galvanize support, leading to increased funding, training, and care for the millions of domestic violence survivors with traumatic brain injuries who have been suffering in silence nationwide.

Developing a Future with More Affordable Housing

As an award-winning nonprofit housing developer, VOA-GNY is tackling one of our city’s biggest problems: a lack of affordable housing. This year we broke ground on Andrews Avenue Senior Residence—our second development in the Bronx designed with the specific needs of older adults in mind. Our first, East Clarke Place Senior Residence, opened in 2021.

Lucia* and her family fled Colombia to escape escalating gang violence. Out of desperation, they gave their life savings to a smuggler who promised to transport them safely to the U.S., but the smuggler abandoned them in the jungle. By the time they arrived at the U.S. border, they had been assaulted, traumatized, and robbed of all their possessions.

This is a story shared by many of the 30,000 asylum seekers who were transported to New York City in 2022.

VOA-GNY is on the frontlines of this humanitarian crisis. We opened a sanctuary shelter in the Bronx for asylum seeking families—with two more set to open in 2023—where our team of culturally competent, bilingual staff provide comprehensive support services to each family, including familiar foods and necessities like shoes and winter coats. We connect them with medical care, mental health counselling, ESL classes, legal services and ensure that children are enrolled in school. But perhaps most importantly, our staff are ready to listen and offer kindness, encouragement, and support.

It Takes a ~~Village~~ City

This year, 213 corporate and other community partners made a difference in the lives of VOA-GNY clients.

The Arman Roy Foundation funded two new computer labs at our family shelters for homework, ESL courses, resume writing and more.

Partners including Wells Fargo, Colgate-Palmolive, Randa Accessories, GAP, Matter Kind and Spruce helped provide urgently needed essentials to adults and families entering shelter.

Volunteers from Deloitte led a job preparation workshop to help women get back into the workforce.

Partners like Credit Suisse made an impact through employee matching programs.

01 | Aetna Better Health® of New York “adopted” one of our senior housing programs, sponsoring lunches and gifts to lift spirits year-round.

02 | 2,500 gifts and toys from partners like Lockton and Major League Soccer helped make the holiday season brighter for clients.

03 | Mayor Eric Adams visited staff and clients at VOA-GNY in honor of Domestic Violence Awareness Month.

Operation Backpack®

Together we equipped all 15,000 students living in New York City homeless shelters with a backpack and new school supplies—tools they need to thrive academically and one day break the cycle of poverty.
